SHOT DEAD.

GEORGE JOINTER SHOT AND

KILLED BY THOMAS

BEST,

Whom He Has Threatened, and

Upon Whom He is Preparing to Make an Attack.

A Bad Negro Gone—Few Who

Mourn Him.

Saturday morning, about eight o'clock, those whose business had called them to the neighborhood of the postoffice were startled to hear two shots ring out on the morning air, carrying with them the fear that some one had, unshriven, been ushered into the presence of its maker. All too true was the premonition. George Jointer, a worthless negro, whose whole life seemed to be given up to lawlessness and violence, had met his death at the hands of Thomas R. Best.

The facts, as we have been able to gather them, are about as follows:

George Jointer, aged about 21, and who had been so successful in getting into jail that he had spent about ten months out of each year, for the last ten, behind prison bars, had, on June 12, been released upon the completion of a jail sentence, for breaking into a store, and upon which charge he barely escaped the pen.

Jointer had become deeply enraged against Thomas Best for some purchase. Mr. Best had been compelled

BRECKINRIDGE IS OUT.

Dropped in Dishonor From The Membership Of The Union League Club.

The name of W. C. P. Breckinridge

no longer disgraces the membership roll of the Union League Club.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors the offensive name was wiped from the honorary list of thirteen names, and by a unanimous vote Brockinridge was expelled from the club.

The month expired which had been given Breckinridge to reply to the club kicking the disreputable Congressman out of its exclusive circle.

A dozen members of the Board of Directors were present. Immediately on the meeting of the board the Breckinridge case was taken up and by a unanimous vote the name was dropped from the rolls.

The Sharpburg Milling Company

ANOTHER KILLING.

GEORGE REASOR MEETS HIS

DEATH AT A NEGRO

FESTIVAL.

Four Negroes in Jail Charged

With The Murder.

On Saturday night the negroes held a "festival" at the house of Ben Davis some three miles north of town on the W. W. Thompson farm. During the evening a dispute arose between a couple of those in attendance as to which could most gracefully exhibit his powers as a dancer. The dispute waxed into a quarrel and the quarrel into a free fight. The tale of the negroes is that Hayes Scott and Jim Holley, were indulging in this friendly dispute when George Reasor rushed into the room and grabbed Hayes

Scott by the throat and that about fifteen shots were fired, they do not know by whom, one of which lodged a bullet in the body of the dead negro.

A knife was also used with which Reasor was cut on the head. When the smoke cleared away Reasor was dead, and none of the other participants hurt. The dead negro worked for Mr.

Robert Crooke, and was a valuable workman. Four negroes have been lodged in jail charged with being participants in the crime. Their names are Hayes Scott, George Scott, Rob

Black and Jim Holley. A negro man

Peters.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Peters, wife of ex-Chief Justice B. J. Peters, died at the residence of her husband yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. She had nearly completed four score years, having reached her seventy-eighth birthday December 20th last. Her whole life has been spent in this county. Born and reared here, the good people know her life as it is.

They know her faithfulness, her fidelity and her wisely devotion. They know her as one who reigned in her home a very queen, and who left nothing undone to make that home as perfect a one for her husband and his friends as possible. She was in the truest sense a helpmeet to him who so many years ago wedded her while the bloom of girlhood yet lingered on her fair face. Her home was one to which the many friends, that the public life of her husband had drawn to him, were always welcome, and many indeed are those who have enjoyed its boundless hospitality. Their married life reached over the long period of sixty-two years, nine months and eighteen days. A goodly life-time in itself.

The true wife held up the hands of her husband in all his struggles in political and business life. She shared

In view of the coming reunion at Birmingham, Ala., April 25th and 26th Gen'l J. B. Gordon, General Commanding, asks that the press of the country give its aid to the patriotic and benevolent objects of the organization by publishing the date of the reunion, etc.

Business of the greatest importance will be transacted at this meeting, looking to the preservation of historic records; the care of disabled and needy veterans who once were the grey; the care of the graves of the Confederate dead, and other matters of moment.

UNEXPECTED RESULTS.

"Sure mum, an' it's a bit of writin' I've got fur to give ye. Miss Kittie Allen run out wid it as I was comin' by wid me bafe fur breakfast. An' see she, all out of breath wid runnin, see she, 'Do you give this here to Miss Nellie just as quick as ever ye git home, fur it's very important,' see she, 'So here is the mimm.'

And with a dainty bow Bridget read the leaving pretty Nellie Landon reading her note. It ran as follows:

"MY DARLING NELL: I've a darling scheme—and it is, to go to Detroit to-day. To go over on the new boat. There's going to be an excursion, you know. We can have five or six hours in the city for sightseeing. Papa has given me leave to go and also a couple of tickets. So you just must not disappoint me, for I know we can have a picnic. We'll have all the fun imaginable. Who knows but we might have some ideal adventure to see the city and get back. I'll come by for you in half an hour so be ready, for the boat leaves the landing at nine o'clock. Ever lovingly, KATHIEA."

Kattie and Nellie were just home from the restraints of boarding school and thought a day all by themselves, with no teacher "spying around" as they called it, ready to reprimand or report them if they dared to have "one bit of fun," would be the most delightful thing in the world. Kittie, always plans every thing so charmingly, thought Nell. All the girls at school were all especially fond of Kittie, any plan of hers was always sure to meet with the approval of the rest. And they might well be fond of her for she was one of the brightest of cheerful girls, the life and soul of the school, a favorite with every one from the stately Matrons down to the domestics. No one else was as generous, as unselfish, ready to help, ready to give or to lend, as Kittie. Although bright and gay, clever and warm hearted, yet she was dangerously thoughtless at times, and thoughtlessness often leads into as much trouble and disgrace as graver faults.

Sweet, gentle, little Nell was Kittie's most devoted follower. Wherever Kittie led, Nell was sure to follow, looking up to her as a model in all things; her opinions and sayings being always wisest; and her advice always most relied upon.

So it did not take her long to decide that this plan was a happy thought of Kittie's and having gained her mother's consent, she begins dressing at once, while Mrs. Landon goes down to see about having a luncheon prepared.

Why Mamma, you have enough for a half dozen! But I'm sure I'm greatly obliged, and I'll be an on-my-best-behavior girl, said Nell in reply to the oft repeated injunctions of her mother. "Here comes Kittie so good bye mamma dearest."

With much laughter and merriment the girls are soon seated upon the upper deck of the beautiful steamer the Saginaw. Below all is confusion. The noise, din, pushing, shoving and rumbling incident to the last few minutes before a boat's departure, are going on. Baggage is being rushed on board. Baggage being bewailed as lost. Friends waiting to see friends off. Some are weeping others, are downcast and on the verge of tears. Here were some dogs being smuggled on board, and here, some dogs being vigorously persuaded to stay at home. Wherever you looked there was bustle and confusion, except where the girls have chosen their seat, in the bow of the boat.

We now leave them for a time to their own merry chatter, while we listen to the comments of two young men, sitting near, who were quite handsome, faultlessly dressed, yet polite and jolly in manner, making what we recognize in our day as "gallant mashers." They are smoking the inevitable cigarette and gazing around in search of some source of amusement. Suddenly they spied out two friends, Kittie and Nell. The taller one exclaimed "Jove! but those are pretty girls. Is a little out of our line of business on this trip, but let's get acquainted with 'em. It would help to relieve the monotony, to 'drive dull care away' gazing meanwhile with an air of languid approval at the slight figure of Nell in her waist-fitting blue serge costume. They were soon favored with their wished for opportunity, for a puff of wind whisked off Kittie broad banded hat, and, just as it was sailing overboard, it was safely and gracefully grasped by one of the young men. With a bow and a smile that seemed to impress the girls favorably he returned the hat and received Kittie's graceful thanks. After that it seemed so easy to glide into conversation for who could resist the temptation to listen to his humorist vaunter and anecdotes?

In this way the time passed rapidly till the young men excused themselves to have some ices sent up. During their short absence Nellie uttered a few feeble remonstrances against such freedom with perfect strangers. "I'm sure it wouldn't agree with mamma's ideas of propriety."

"Oh! she wouldn't think any thing of it" replied Kittie. "Where's the harm of exchanging a few words with perfect gentlemen, you dear little prude! thing. I'll run all the risk and take all the blame if they don't prove to be perfect gentlemen. Or you wouldn't make a mountain out of a molehill, I think it would just be jolly to invite them to lunch with us. Just for a frolic you know. I'm not afraid, though of course if you are going to be so particular and squeamish perhaps we had better look the other way when they come back and say we don't care for any of your 'freshments.'" Nellie laughed. And Kittie continued, "For my part I think it would be more lady like for us to simply be polite and pleasant to them." "Oh, I guess you are right," replied Nell, with a little sigh, for her secret soul she felt that Kittie was wrong for once.

Kittie excused herself for offering to share her luncheon with them by saying to herself, "Oh no more than kindness." Of course the youngmen praised the dinner and declared they had never enjoyed one better.

When they arrived at Detroit and learned that the girls had just come over in sight seeing, one of the youngmen proposed getting a carriage and taking them over the city.

This proposition was heartily seconded by the other one, saying, "Do let us repay you in a slight measure for your kindness in inviting us to luncheon."

Our poor little heroines seemed to be sadly in need of moral courage, for, surely, they had some misgivings as to the propriety of such an arrangement, but they uttered no emphatic protest and accordingly a carriage was procured. And a gay party they made. Not boisterous, for the girls prided themselves on their lady like demeanor. And they did have a delightful ride, as Nellie expressed it, through many lovely drives and parks of Detroit. After they had driven two or three hours the girls remembered they had a little shopping to attend to. "And what are you going to do when you have finished that indefinite amount of shopping that always seems so necessary to the feminine mind?" queried Mr. Butler (for so his companion called him) of Kittie, on whom he was bestowing his most tender glances.

"Oh, we haven't any special plans we just started out for a day of recreation, didn't we Nell? to which Nellie wadded assent, "If we really have any time left afterwards I presume we will take a walk," she added. "And won't you allow us to join you, I'm sure nothing could give us more pleasure, our errands will be quickly done meanwhile," said he, with what was meant to be a very bewitching smile, and it must have had the intended effect, for before the more prudent little Nellie could frame any excuse, Mr. Butler had asked "where shall we meet you?"

A solemn thought as to what her kind papa would think could he see her making appointments with strange youngmen, in a strange city flitted through Kittie's mind, but with reckless love of adventure, she cast aside the warning and answered in a tone that tried hard to sound commonplace, and not show how her foolish little heart was fluttering, and how flattered she was to be shown so much attention.

We will be at No. 444, Superior St., about five o'clock, if you care to call for us." "Oh! you are very kind," responded he with an alluring look in his dark eyes, though it was hard for them to keep from revealing the amusement their owner felt at having his vanity so neatly satisfied. And his first expression when the youngmen were alone, was, "Well! this experience or flirtation, or whatever you may call it is a growing immense, and the end is not yet! I wonder what their mothers would say if they knew of their contamination with our precious selves! The innocent little darlings! I declare it is the most fun I've had for a year."

Wonder how my wife would look at it, if she could look away over here from O! I wish I had a picture of that lovely one in, blue, just to make my wife jealous, you know. And what'll you bet I don't get one too, before the day is over?"

"Oh! but how can you? you wouldn't dare to ask her to send it to you. Then of course you know that it is highly important for us that we leave no particular memoranda as to our future whereabouts." "Oh, I'm aware of all that, but I'll bet I secure the picture just the same." And so he did, and this is the way it came about. They all met in accordance with their plan and were soon taking a walk, as they passed by an artist's gallery Mr. Butler exclaimed, as if the thought had just entered his mind. Wouldn't it be a delightful reminder of our happy day to have our pictures taken together!" The girls at first demurred, but he urged them so earnestly and pleasantly to have even a tin type taken, that they, loving fun and adventure so dangerously well, finally yielded, by passively consenting. Just before the boat landed on the return trip Mr. Butler whispered to foolish Kittie. I don't expect to be satisfied with this tin type very long. However, I'm very thankful for it now, but when I have met you in the old fashioned orthodox way and fully satisfied your rather as to my credentials, I hope to be entitled to a more perfect likeness of you. To-day we have thrown aside social restraints and formalities, and what a delightful day we have had! I can't thank you enough for the pleasure of your company. Before we part I have one more favor to ask of you, and that is the street and the number of your house—and your permission to call very soon.

THE NEW F. F. V. LIMITED.

Important Change in schedule of the C. & O's Pet Train.

Commencing Sunday, May 13th the F. F. V. Limited will leave Cincinnati daily at 12:20 noon, arriving in Washington at 7:40 a. m., Baltimore 9:00 a. m., Philadelphia 11:20 a. m. and New York 1:40 p. m. The train will consist of Composite Car, Elegant Day Coach, with Smoking Compartment, Dining Car, Pullman Sleeping Car of the latest and most improved design, and an Observation Car. Emphasis is especially placed on the Observation Car. Built by the Pullman Company from Chesapeake & Ohio plants, the F. F. V. Observation Cars serve their purpose better than any others that have ever been constructed.

As the F. F. V. Limited is the only train having an Observation Car attached, it necessarily follows that the Chesapeake & Ohio R'y alone has scenery interesting enough to demand an Observation Car. The F. F. V. Limited is the only train running through from Cincinnati to New York that enables the business man to transact business in Cincinnati one day and in New York the next. It is the only train that enables the business man to transact business in Cincinnati one day and reach Washington for breakfast next morning. It is the only train for Jersey City Coast resorts, which are reached by the F. F. V. at dinner time instead of in the evening. It is the most desirable train for New England resorts, connection being made in the Union Depot in Washington with the Colonial Express running through to Boston which reaches New Haven 4:10 p. m., New London 5:30 p. m., Providence 7:15 p. m. and Boston 8:30 p. m. The F. F. V. is the only modern train lighted throughout with Electricity carrying a Dining Car and an Observation Car.

The Washington and Atlantic Express, also an Electric Lighted Vestibuled train, will leave Cincinnati at 7:00 p. m., reaching Washington 2:40 p. m. and Old Point Comfort 6:50 p. m. Connection is made at Washington with the Boston Express or the Limited, reaching New York about 9:00 p. m. At Norfolk connection is made with the Old Dominion Steamship Line, reaching New York 3:00 p. m. the next day.

On account of the San Francisco Mid-Winter Fair, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company will sell excursion tickets to San Francisco, St. Jose, Cotton, Los Angeles and San Diego, Cal., and Portland, Ore., at reduced rates, good until April 1, 1894. For particulars call on any local ticket agent or address D. C. Brady, Southern Passenger Agent, 237 Fourth ave., Louisville, Ky. 21-

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Congress.

We are authorized to announce Hon. J. M. Kendall, of Floyd county as candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce John C. Wood as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner, for the Eastern District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Republican party.

We are authorized to announce Col. A. W. Hamilton, of Montgomery, as a candidate for Congress from this Tenth Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce C. B. Hill, of Beattyville, as a candidate for Congress from the Tenth Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Don't forget the precinct meeting next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to send delegates to the county convention, that meets at the Court house on Tuesday next, to instruct for candidate for Congress and to select delegates to the Campion convention.

The Primary Election.

In the county primary through which we have just passed there was an unusual amount of vote buying. Money and whisky were used most lavishly. We do not know who indulged in the disreputable practice, nor can we afford to stop to find out whether those who engaged in it are our warm personal friends or not; it is a disgrace and a shame that public sentiment will permit any man who lays claim to even a modicum of respectability to stand openly charged with such a crime against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth. We know no language severe enough to use in condemnation of such practice. It is no excuse for its indulgence to say that all the other candidates bought votes, or were simply in the contest, and so, to keep up with the procession, must be done. I am charged, and charged openly, that men who are recognized as gentlemen and who would scorn to set at defiance the laws of the State in any other direction, engaged in this disreputable practice with as little shame as they would purchase a steak for their breakfast. Can nothing be done to put a period to this shameful and corrupting practice that is sapping the virtue and manhood of the State?

We are not ready to indulge in a tirade against the grand juries for not bringing this matter to the lotus and bringing the guilty ones to the bar of justice. We fear some far-seeing politician, who wanted the aid of the shyster and did not propose to have a self-selling friends' occupation interfered with, had a hand in framing our law on the subject. A conviction is next to impossible so long as both buyer and seller are equally culpable in the eyes of the law.

Just because a conviction is hardly possible should not relieve those who indulge in the disreputable practice of the election that should attach, to them. Let the good people of the county rise in their might and call a halt on this business. How men are to indulge in such practices and then take the oath of office, we leave for them to settle with their own consciences.

To the People of the Tenth Congressional District.

A condition of political affairs in this district, peculiar, if not altogether unique, brought about by the withdrawal at this late day of the Hon. M. C. Lisle, your present Representative, opens the way for the entrance of other aspirants; and, yielding to the solicitations of the Democracy of my own county and numerous friends in various parts of the district, and also embracing what appears to be a favorable opportunity to execute a well known wish on my own part by offering my services to the district, I hereby announce myself a candidate for Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

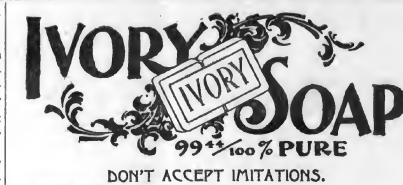

Three months ago I was urged by many leading Democrats to take this step, and the pressure at home was especially strong, but, impelled by the conviction that the Democratic custom of acceding to renomination by way of endorsement to a faithful Representative should not be ignored in this case, I declined and dismissed all thought of entering the contest. The retirement from the race of the gentleman who was seeking this endorsement, and whom I could not get my consent to oppose without cause, removes the obstacle to my candidacy and brings you face to face with the duty which your citizenship imposes of choosing among a number of candidates who must come before you on their merits and claim your support on the score of personal fitness and fidelity to the inalienable principles of Democracy.

My duties and business experience ever since I arrived at the age of twenty-one years have been in the line of public affairs—without circumscribed limits, it is true—and I have devoted no small part of my time and energy assiduously to the thoughtful consideration of questions of public policy and popular interest with a view to intelligently discharging my duties as a citizen, if nothing more.

Within the short time that intervenes between the present and the date of the county convention, I shall be driven by the exigencies of the case to limit my canvass to only a few counties of the district and shall not be able to see many of you in person and express my views on public questions in your presence, and I hope, therefore, that in performing the sacred duty that devolves upon you as citizens and voters you will act with patriotic deliberation.

Respectfully,

C. B. HILL.
Beattyville, Ky., June 11, '94.

To the Democrats of the Tenth Congressional District.

Kind friends who know how faithful I have been to Democratic principles and with what zeal and consistency I have stood by the interests of the masses of the people, have urged me to become a candidate for Congress. Of course neither they nor I would have thought of my doing so as long as my neighbor, Judge Lisle, was in the field. His withdrawal, however, leaves the question open. I have not hesitated to announce myself because I did not appreciate the honor of a seat in the national House of Representatives, but have doubted the policy of entering a contest so near its close, and besides, have been hampered by business engagements which I could not as an honorable man ignore. I confess that I would like very much to have the nomination at Campton and would take pleasure in making a careful canvass of the district and in trying to convince its voters that the Democratic party is not responsible in any degree for the financial depression which so distresses the American people. It would be a physical impossibility for me to visit the people of the different counties, and I will therefore content myself with asking them through the press to give me their support in the event that they believe me capable, worthy and available.

We cannot afford to make a mistake in this matter, because if we do, the district might be lost and the county ticket in several counties that we ought to carry put in jeopardy. I will not push myself on the party, but will accept the result of its action with faith in its wisdom and with no less confidence than I have ever had in the doctrine that the majority should rule.

W. M. BECKNER.

Miss Lizzie, second daughter of J. M. Bigsby, was married last Thursday evening in the city of Winchester to Haily C. Hagas, only son of C. C. Regan. Immediately after the ceremony they left for Cincinnati, which place they have decided to make their future home and where Mr. Regan will engage in business. They have our best wishes.

The race that was, all things considered, by all odds the most wonderful of them all, as decided by last week's primary, was that made by John Roberts for Assessor. John came under the string second to his race, and this, too, without a dollar on which to make the fight. His vote was of necessity from stand-up men, since he did not have the alms of war with which to secure the floating element. John Roberts made such a personal canvass as made him a good second within a few votes of his successful opponent. The young man need not feel discouraged; he will find that his late canvass will stand him in good stead in any business in which he may engage, or in any future political campaign that he may enter.

Memphis Appeal-Avalanche: The editor of a Populist paper in Arkansas, who resigned his position to accept a more lucrative position as clerk in a grocery store, has been succeeded by two able-bodied patriots who propose to make the canvass red-hot if it takes all summer. When winter comes in they will have the experience and the grocery clerk will have fuel, food and good clothes. It is much easier to run a red-hot paper during a canvass than to keep up a red-hot stove the following winter.

There will be a picnic Thursday, June 21, given by the ladies of the Maxwell street Presbyterian church and the ladies of the Upper street Baptist church of Lexington, at Aden Springs. G. W. Harny, district judge, agent of the C. & O., will have the management of it. Rates from Mt. Sterling will be $1.50. Everyone who can afford to, should go, for it will certainly be a most delightful day. Train leaves Lexington at 7 a. m., and starts on its return trip at 6 p. m.

Mrs. De Bride was entertaining callers. After they left she remarked to her husband: "I hope they didn't see my walking shoes lying there; they would think we were very uncleanly if they did." "Oh, if they saw them, they probably thought they were mine," answered her husband, in a consoling tone. And she hasn't spoken to him since.—Detroit Free Press.

Daniel Brock, of Borden, Ind., desperate from poverty, killed his wife and seven-year-old son Monday last and then blew off his own head. The three bodies were found Thursday, side by side, in a rude pen Brock had built to keep the hogs from them.

The Guessing Contest.

The people of this county are very poor guessers. They could not even guess the list of nominees of the Democratic primary last Thursday. The guesses went wild in every case. One of the winners was only named on one ticket, and that ticket went on several other nominees. We will in the near future give the opportunity to redeem their record, offering them another opportunity to secure the prize.

GRAND BICYCLE TOURNAMENT.

At Sharpsburg, June 28, 1894.

This will be a great day at Sharpsburg. Thousands of people will be in attendance. These are some of the attractions:

Bicycle race—10 miles between the crack cyclists of the State. Prizes $20, $10 and $5. Entrance Doherty, Hemphill, Nowlin, Dard, Van Antwerp, Hedges, Giltner.
Second race—for amateurs, mile handicap, free-for-all, prize.
Third race—for juveniles over 14 years old; two best three, half mile heat, $5.
Mule race, two pony races, relay race, wheelbarrow race, Grand Parade of Knights Pythias, 200 strong.

A grand gala-day and a pleasant day for everyone. We can say our neighbors that Montgomery county will be well represented and we know they will all have good time.

Ex-Vice President Morton, now in London, conveyed a proposition that he would accept Republican nomination for New York.

HORSE AND TRACK.

M. McHenry has over 30 horses in his stable.

Azote, 2:14, will be in Sallabury's stable this year.

In France hay is worth $40 and straw $24 per ton.

Alx trotted the last half of a fast mile in 1:05 recently.

It is reported that Kremlin, 2:07, trotted a half mile in one minute last week.

There are 20 youngsters sired by Axtell, 2:12, in training at Terre Haute.

Fantasy, 2:08, is faster right now than she was when she made her record last fall.

Mascot has paced a mile in 2:12, and Gen. Turner says no living horse can beat him from the wire at present.

Will Kerr, 2:17, will go without hobbles this year, although they were necessary to him when he took his record.

Chas. Bean will trot at Lima, Ohio this week. His horses are in good shape and he is winning his part of the money.

Nancy Lee, the dam of Nancy Hanks, 2:04, has foaled a very fine black colt, by Director, 2:17, at Cloverfield farm.

Monroe Sallabury owns a suckling foal by Direct, 2:05, dam by Thistle, 2:13, that he has picked out as the coming two-minute performer.

Direct, 2:05, has the names of 68 mares on his book this year, and every one of them is either a performer, sister of a performer, or the dam of one.

Bean Bros. have in training some very promising two-year-olds by Knighthood. They have two fillies belonging to Mr. Cushman, of Pennsylvania, that are good ones. One by Pico Russell and the other by Cyclone. They will not be started this season, but will bear the bell ring next season.

Aggie Gaux, by Almont Archie, worked two miles last week in 2:34 and 2:30. This filly is going good and her owner expects her to take a mark close to 2:20 this season. Azor, born gelding, by same sire, is going like a race horse and will likely take a low record this season. Both of these horses are being trained by Van Evers & Herriott.

Boadhi (4) by Bermuda, who trotted a mile in his work last week, at Lexington, in 2:16, was bred by John McDonald, of this county. He sold owner for $800. Mr. McDonald still owns Carrie, Boadhi's dam, and she will foal a full sister or brother this week to Mr. Tracy's fast colt.

Guess For $1,000.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has announced another of its popular guessing contests, taking the temperature at Louisville during the month of August as the basis. One thousand dollars in cash will be given free as presents to the new or old renewing subscribers who guess the hottest day, at Louisville, during August, and give the closest guess to the highest temperature the Weather Bureau thermometer will reach on that day. The subscription price of the Weekly Courier-Journal is $1 a year. Each guess must be accompanied by one yearly subscription. No newspaper published in the United States has been so liberal to its subscribers, or has offered such liberal prizes to secure new subscribers, as the Courier-Journal. During the past eighteen months it has given away in presents, absolutely free, $17,400 in money, not to mention such premium articles as sewing machines, watches, guns, etc. This in spite of the business depression, that is felt as much or more in newspaper offices than in any other business. The Weekly Courier-Journal has just announced the lucky guessers in its May raffish contest. There were 222 of these guessers, distributed over the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Indiana, Virginia, Missouri, Louisiana, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Indian Territory, Michigan, South Carolina, South Dakota, West Virginia, New York, California, Florida, Washington and Oklahoma. No better indication of the circulation of the Weekly Courier-Journal could be had than this list. Sample copies of the paper, with full details and blanks, may be had by sending a request on a postal card. Address Weekly Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky. The contest closes July 31st.

Louisville Tobacco Market.

Sales on our market for the week just closed, amount to 2,243 hhds, with receipts for the same period, 2,113 hhds. Sales on our market since January 1st, amount to 88,470 hhds. Sales of the crop of 1893 on our market to this date amount 86,206 hhds.

Our market this week has been very firm for burley tobacco, with an upward tendency on all grades; current prices being nearer outside than inside quotations. In some sections of the State we have had local showers during the week, but the territory covered by rains was very limited and the general condition and prospects of the crop are not as flattering as they were a week ago.

The following quotations fairly represent our market for burley tobacco. (1893 crop.)

Trash. (Dark damaged tobacco) $2.50 to $3.30.

Common colory trash, $4.00 to $4.50

Medium to good colory trash, $5.00 to $7.50.

Common lugs, not colory, $4.50 to $5.50.

Common colory lugs, $6.50 to $7.50.

Medium to good colory lugs, $7.50 to $10.00.

Common to medium leaf $8.50 to $12.00.

Medium to good leaf, $12.00 to $16.00.

Good to fine leaf, $16 to $18.

Select wrappery leaf, $18 to $23.50.

1 DAM OPHIR..... BY ALAMO (by Almont, dam by Abdal-ah 1st)

2 DAM NEXUS DIO..... BY MAMBRINO CHIEF.

3 DAM..... BY RED JACKET.

4 DAM ROBERT PATTERSON MARE..... BY

KNIGHTHOOD

Is a bay horse, 15 1/2 hands high, good style, heavy mane and tail. He is also a horse of fine pelting, and is fast. He has shown as quarters over our track repeatedly in 4 seconds. His breeding is excellent and his sale is not only this, but without exception are the actors. A 6-year-old out by him trotted a mile at Indianapolis last October in 2:30 1/2, and will be campaigned this season. We have a lot of 2-year-olds that are not only good looking, but show great good. Two of them trotted quarters last fall in 41 and 42 seconds, and the others are well-grown. Knighthood is the best all-purpose horse that has ever made a mark in this country. In breeding to this horse you get something that will bring you money. If you get a fast one, you are all right, and if you get a horse that will bring from 75c to $100 as a road horse. This statement may be verified by calling at Maple Hill and seeing our colts and fillies, or by talking to J. W. Jones, who has handled some of the produce of Knighthood, and sold them at long prices. Aberdeen is noted as a sire of grand race horses. Knighthood's dam, Ophir, is sired by a son of Almont and out of a mare by Abdal-ah, the sire of Almont. His second dam, Queen Dido, is the dam of Red Wilkes, who has won the list.

KNIGHTHOOD will make the season of 1894 at "Maple Hill Farm," and will serve mares at $15 to insure a Live Colt.

Money due when colts come or mare parted with. If the season money is not paid in thirty days after the colt is foaled, $20 will be due and collected after that time.
